

The Cabinet of Curiosity is an educational activity especially for children at Eden Valley Museum. The activity is free and ongoing and intended for children between the ages of 5 and 11 years old to help them explore the history of the Eden Valley in a fun and engaging way.

The activity is housed within an old pharmacy cabinet with lots of drawers. Each drawer is filled with an interesting fact and an everyday object to discover which relates to an item on display. There are also some questions and answers for children too. No need to book.
